

Staying put. Firmly.

This is a behavior that stems from security. The world is terrifying outside this box. We all love more color and expression but do not want to be a part of it ourselves from pressure to perform. From a perspective of what that conceptually is in a predetermined definition. In other words of how things are supposed to be in order to be OK or GOOD.

You decide that.

But you gotta become animated. And do something for everybody.

You wanna experience the world?

Well. You can experience all land area on this planet from a single expression? Many have done that. You can become an expert in playing the flute and it will take you across the globe. But don't you wanna experience more?

You won't do that with thought alone. Not anything material in-fact.

You wanna feel to experience. To be able to do so you must try more, let yourself go! Don't be scared of humiliation. Those who critic are the ones most afraid.

They are truly the Greyskulls of Eternia.

But you can be He-Man or She-Ra!

Take your index finger and point to yourself.

Where did the finger end up?

On your head or your chest? I ain't talking bout tits.

Feel life! Feel love. Feel everything as much as possible.
Stay in the heart space as much as you can with all that you do!

I love you. I truly do. I care. I truly do. Beek a boo. Smell the Poo.
One foot in front of the other. You can too!

We all float. Up here.
