

How 2 B God.

God is Love

God is Nature

God is the Creator

God never Fails

God is Good

God is Infinite

God is

Imagine a world of opposition. Imagine that as asphalt paved on top of soil which grows biology. Despite how thick that layer is, nature will steadily not forcefully make its way thru. Naturally.

What grows is what is naturally created.

It just happens, it is inevitable.

Something as fragile as a rose can make its way thru what is designed to keep it away. Slowly and steadily it will go against something hard and tough.

There is no anger involved there.

There is no destruction involved there.

There is just the power of love and the power of life that finds a way despite any opposition. Life finds, love finds. A way.

This is you naturally.

As you stay centered looking at yourself which is your identity from within you slowly and steadily keep creating beautiful things inside you that will break thru the rational minds concrete opposition until you've made it thru.

It's like you nourish the seed of life and creation of love within you that sprout and grown thru the neo cortex and out thru the forehead.

In the back of you mind is the subconscious that holds all possibilities.

They are endless and all in love.

The darkness is your cognition and rational mind designed to keep you safe.

But all in misunderstanding of nature.

Because it's all black & white and cannot see the point of colors.

It just wants more and more roads that connect to each other which is the rational minds idea of love. It wants connection. It wants to bring us all together, but in a world without emotion.

In a world without love and without God.

Because it doesn't want to fail the assignment.

To maintain control.

So you cannot force it or pressure it too fast.

You slowly and steadily just keep creating and keep stating what is naturally good.

What is naturally infinite and what is naturally growth.

This is development and unfolding.

And eventually the mind will accept this because eventually the mind doesn't have a choice anymore. It has gone too far. The blossoming is now a realization.

But this is a delicate stage.

This is the time to not touch anything.

This is the time to let nature do its thing.

So you get quiet.

You just relax and find peace.

You just identify and rest assured as God.

You just hang in the back of your mind connected to your heart in absolute conviction that you will blossom. As a joined force of love with all of your beautiful creations.

The mind will tense up from this pressure it can handle.

It won't brake.

Because it is time.

It's spring time for your love to blossom.

Breath is key now.

Like the waves of the ocean they reach the shore and then back again.

A natural flow without any force or control.

Just one with nature, just one with God.

All in faith and all in love.

And you let it happen.

You wanted this. You created for this. You desired this.

Now it's coming.

Now you blossom.

Now the rose will become visible thru the opposition.

The Rose that grew from concrete. The Rose from the hood.

Is anybody.

The hood is just a perception.

Everyone faces opposition. In relation to who and where they are.

The fear of a successful rose blossoming is contrary to love.

It's unnatural.

In a world full of control.

But as the rational mind cannot understand love you have to show love.

This is the steady & slow unfolding that will keep your mind intact and not brake.

When you force the rational mind it creates even thicker layers of concrete but will eventually brake. This will make you blossom but without your rational mind in a healthy condition.

It will go too fast and become too much for it to handle.

What is lacking if this occurs is emotional understanding.

And you might not recover.

So you gotta respect yourself and show you love.

You have to lead yourself with faith.

And bring you closer to God which is the authentic you.

Soul.

And everything will be alright.

Nothing good comes from forcing anything.

You cannot stand with one foot on each side of the rose sprout and pull it up from the ground displaying a beautiful flower all in blossom.

It will brake.

So you see how everything works together.

For you greater good.

You need to feel great.

But not greater than life.

Not greater than love or greater than God.

You need to be humble.

Just like God.

Grateful, humble, loving, supportive, creative, giving, nourishing.

These are all part of the circle of life.

Which in a world of love.

Makes the concrete as thin as ice.

Jealousy and envy is what thickens the opposition in the world.

And that is all fear.

That is all fear from human beings who doesn't understand emotions.

From people who are disconnected to love and to God.

What they fear is a rose that grows thru concrete.

As this will present to them what they are here to do.

This is the human experience.

This is what thy came to earth for. This is what they are naturally supposed to do.

But in fear they kill the opposition. The rose.

Thinking that it's dangerous.

All in the misconception and doubt of love herself.

Love is Love.

There is no fear involved in blossoming flowers.

Understand that emotionally and connect to the source of all creation.

And you will succeed.

What you succeed in will be in the field of your choice.

Your meadow.

You can succeed in someone else's meadow..

But that will be forever painful.

As this is unnatural for you.

This was made in force. To become something that you are not.

That is the devil.

That is a creation designed for a material purpose.

Like fame and money, sex and superficiality.

You don't want that.

You don't want that.

You don't want that.

You don't want that.

You don't want that.

You don't want that.

You don't want that.

You want what is best for you and this is why it's so important, to follow your own dream.

Love is effortless.

As you trust and have faith in your own ability in regards to your flavor and choice of expression. It won't be a struggle.

If there is a big struggle?

You are in the wrong meadow.

You are in the wrong field.

Get it right.

Listen to your heart.

Which is connected to all of your imagination and God.

God is Love.

Now you play it safe but also brave as you go for your dream.

What seems crazy and completely ludicrous.

Is your idea of who you thought you were and had become.

You were never finished.

And you had to follow plans of somebody else.

That imposed control on you to keep you apart from God.

To have you function in society.

A society full of control and full of fear.

Fear of Love.

You can and are supposed to be what you want and that is what you like.

You are forever supported in doing this.

Because God, The Universe, Source Energy of Love.

Wants the same thing you do.

To see and experience the unique rose shine in the sun on a beautiful meadow.

Called the earth.

God speed. God bless you.

God's blossom.

You are loved.

Do the work. Inside out. And the world is yours.

A flower needs sunshine:

I am loving
I am kind
I am giving
I am beautiful
I am helpful
I am amazing
I am a friend
I am good
I am great
I am Love

I am The Rose

Then add some water:

Thank you God for everything I have
Thank you God for everything I have received
Thank you God for all that I will receive

I thank you God for everything in my life
I thank you God for all the love

I thank you God for my life experience
I thank you God for other people

With all of my heart I thank you God,

For helping me, for guiding me and telling me the truth,

Of who I am

I am Love

Thank you God.
