

A SICK WORLD

Lars Rosenblad
transmutation.se

HUMANITY IS SICK

If you have done something wrong that puts you in financial debt, it can create tremendous amounts of pressure and lack of hope. It can become such a heavy burden that despite all the self love in the world you might eventually commit suicide. As you cannot see a way out of it during the span of one human experience, in one lifetime.

Let's say you have personal debts, you have bills, loans, interests and penalty fees weighing you down. All of this trying to make a living working at a job that actually becomes all about this, and not about bringing you joy and satisfaction.

All of this coming from a mindset of feeling guilty and unworthy. This being projected from the convictions and struggle inside of you creating this reality. From all the pressure and all the convictions, and chasing you down coming from society. It ends in the fraction of a second without any problem at all. Nobody cares and all the debts including interests and penalty fees are gone just like that!

When you die.

Why do we punish people for punishing themselves?

Why isn't there a solution that takes care of debts giving people their life back and teaching them why they got in this mess to begin with?

When we learn the lesson and acquire skills to handle things differently why do we have to carry the stamp for so many years?

If we do something wrong and understand why from the fundamental baseline of universal laws in relation to ourselves we can create something new. But we can't keep judging and prosecuting people. We create a life where we get punished from our own destructive convictions inside of us. We don't need to add more punishment! We need to understand in order to create something new.

Money has more value than a human life as of today. That is a fact.

Even though many would disagree to that statement they still agree to the punishments. And that is just a double-standard. Like sentencing an individual numbing their pain to prison?

We are seriously not understanding why?

"You feel lost, you feel guilt, you feel shame, you are afraid? Let me punish you!"

It's all like a rolled up newspaper... SHAME ON YOU HUMANITY!