What you want to be different in your human experience and in the world is what you affirm and take action in making a reality. You create your own reality inside your mind using your imagination with strong emotions inside your heart and the universe, god, source will respond to you.

Like this headline right up there. I got that immediately when I woke up today.

It was the first thing before I even opened one eye. And that's the way it works. Not by getting something material all the time or just stating 'I am the President of the United States of America' in the mirror all day long and all of a sudden your it? Nah.. That's crazy. That is ludicrous. There has to be action involved. Creation. It's a co-creation between you and God. You keep stating with intense emotion and you shall receive more inspiration that enables you to create better and better gifts of love that you can offer to the world at your given price. Or maybe the company's price if you're connected to something like that. Or you go solo. And you offer everything for free. It's a matter of choice. I believe that love is free. Which isn't as much a belief really, because love is free. So I just joined hands with that. Agreed!

The definition of a psychosis is really the misunderstood dream. And the dream is all about you. You are the dream. And your development and unfolding is what will be reflected outside of you and become manifested. If you co-create and not just stay inside your mind. Most importantly you must never arrive. Which Doctors tell their patients all the time. They impress their minds with arrival. Because they do not understand the human experience. They do not understand soul, mind, body. So they create all kinds of chronic states to get off the hook as their academic theoretical explanations in a very small-minded perception refuses to be humble. But they have come so far??? They have reached the top in our society??? Yeah. Or the bottom.. The further out in space an individual are would you then define them as close to home? Most wouldn't. So if you are way off in theory do you understand emotion? Nah.. Which means that you've come further away from your humane nature. Your compassionate and loving human being. And believe it or not that is a good thing. Because then you really know what wrong is. And you can do better. But it demands that humility. And acknowledgement of soul.

What makes the dream come alive is not giving up on it. You cannot give up on yourself. Which means that you keep stating positive affirmations in relation to yourself all the time. And as you do this you continue with consuming and creating what is healthy and giving in relation to what makes you feel good. Like this very minute I am sitting in my couch and the time is 07:46. I got up at about 07:15 and it's a Sunday. I've been writing for about 20 minutes and I enjoy a cup of coffee and candy for breakfast. Yeah. Because it makes me feel good today. I will have something to eat later, maybe at 8:30. Some oatmeal porridge and a couple of eggs. But this is how I started my day today. Have you ever tried to be a little free and just do whatever you feel like? Not just do what you are supposed to do? What does that even mean? ..Look. Just don't shitface yourself. Don't do what makes you "feel good" in disguise of feeling like absolute crap when you don't. That's a lie. And you don't need anyone else to tell you that if you are honest in relation to yourself. That's what the whole transmutation.se is about. Being loyal to the game. The game of love. In relation to yourself and to others.

I am writing this piece now, this document. As something to share at the bottom of the whole website. After it has become officially world famous. I am gonna keep it in a folder on my computer desktop so I see that all the time. I'm calling it 'Last Up!'.

You gotta be ahead of time when you create. But not like an idiot. Just a little bit. Like when you make a song. You make that song ahead of time. That song is not released yet. That song has not been recognized and enjoyed by anyone yet. It's made ahead of time. You have to create as you go along in respect to where you are just a little bit ahead of time. Haha! I can't even write this without getting Joel Osteen's voice in my head. That southern accent man! Head. Time. Head. Time. Hahaha.. It's like that I in time is 30 minutes long. I love that. Beautiful..

Well I guess I could write forever about everything I've gone thru but I find that pretty boring. What is important is that you acknowledge the headline right up there. And keep connection with God. Deepen that relationship and you deepen it with love herself. You will get closer to yourself and you will blossom in a crown of humility. That is what you're after. To walk the earth in gratitude and appreciation of yourself. To feel good about yourself and feel that you are so incredibly beautiful. And when you feel that and say that to yourself you'll have a strong focus on your heart. That's what love is all about. Your physicality and errthang is also nice but your heart is your biggest asset. That's you and God merging in there. The SS Loyal doesn't need an ignition key other than you returning to love. And off you go! Out to see the world. God makes it all alright. God bless you. I love you.

End Speech - American Beauty

What made everything so hard for me was my ambition in relation to my resistance. Why this becomes as such is all in relation to the humanity's current condition. How deep down they are in doubt and darkness but also unaware.

I made the choice to become more and more aware and as a result of that I understood more and more. Understanding is emotion, it's feeling.

So the more aware I became the more pain I felt.

And then I began to work with that.

What you see here is a communication of love that has taken years & even decades. Everything I've created has been a simultaneous act of me understanding whilst giving my insights away for free. And also not to land in any ideology meanwhile which would contradict my primary message of freedom.

Many begin to claim that religion is a big problem sometimes even as they are religiously identified and advertise this in their presentation.

This is the hardest thing someone can do in life.

To find God in complete freedom of any ideology.

And also rid themselves of Ego to the extent that they give it all away for free for the greater good.

This could never have happened with a company. Nor could it have happened with somebody already established in the world of influence.

It had to be fresh. It had to be grounded. It had to be common average human being. It had to be someone like me.

I understood this years ago and this has been somewhat of a fuel to support myself as it was tough as hell.

MC Hammer lost it all when I changed his name to Hammer. That is how ludicrous the rational mind is with clinging and attaching to meaningless shit.

If you want to understand me and feel what I've felt. You'd have to do the same thing I did. Let's hope nobody has to do that again.

As I was writing a letter to an environmental politician after seeing him on a documentary I felt someone just staring at me. With such intense energy wanting 100% of my attention. I was in the middle of writing something spectacular that has some advanced logistics & emotional understandings.

This was my mother.

She just had to play her new ringtone she found on her phone that sounded like a guitar.

I was gonna sleep over at hers that night, we already decided that. She got up and said good night to me and the most ungrateful and irritated tone after me not actually giving a fuckin' shit about her fuckin' ringtone.

This is the little girl who "raised me".

Soon going on 70 but never made it past 12-13 or something like that.

Irresponsibility personified. Circumstances don't matter.

Be humble and learn. Be grateful and grow.

To become a mature responsible human being so full of love that you can deliver everything in a cute way just to make a point. And not just that. Because you love that! The colors and the emojis. Because you aren't a sick idiot behaving like a stereotype called "a man".

Dance man!

I could have stopped this anytime. I could have gotten a job and just moved on.

But I would have been dead doing it. I would have died.

Someone has to do this. Someone brave enough and compassionate enough to make a change for the greater good. For future generations. For my and your children's sake. So they won't have to pick up where I left off. I have to release my dream. Or else there will just simply be too much pain to go on.

Because you can't just drop an emotional perspective that encompasses everything in the human experience. You can't just forget that and move on. It's a gift and a curse.

What makes it into a curse is the irresponsible human beings not doing their part. Which in contrast is not that much to be honest. Even though we all have our own perception and sensitivity you will never even get close to the amount of pain I have experienced.

Unless you've lost a child.

Then I am the one with a stick in the finger.

Because my children are still alive as I miss them so much.

And not just miss them, they have been lied to about who I am.

The one who wants to heal humanity but is being declared as a sicko.

That's what hurts the most.

I wasn't the one who cheated and lied about that for 13 years.

Still I suffer alone.

But that is also a part of the unfolding and expansion which is necessary to create me in relation to my ambition and which becomes the resistance.

It's all a part of God's plan.

My part is to never lose faith. Always keep believing. Kill doubt as fast as possible.

And pray.. State the positive. Thank God for everything. Even the most painful. Because that always holds a great lesson. So thank you God.

I did it! I did the thing!

I became who I wanted to become.

The most loving guy on the planet who just wants to give everything away.

And also wishes for everyone to be completely free. Which cannot happen without total forgiveness. And that can never happen without compassionate & emotional understanding.

Viva la fem!

Not a girl. Not a woman. Not a dude who likes dudes.

Just an emotional humane being.

A.K.A - A human.

Thank you God for all the support. I never could have done this without you.

God bless yourself God. God bless yourself..
