SAY YES TO LIFE

2 let life flow. You gotta let it go.
If you ain't gettin' it? You constantly think about it.
Understand it? You cannot. You can only know how it functions in order 2 give it up. Let go of control.

So what is the conclusion?

Live and let live.
Don't worry about it.
Be happy.

Your body reacts and that is not to be interpreted as signs questioning your existence, value & belonging. Don't get so caught up in everything like it's the end of the world.

You are not being punished. Ever.
You got that misconception from growing up, from people who did not know any better. But you do.

Every thought about suicide is the mind's way of trying to tell you that you need to let go. Of itself. It just doesn't have a great palette so the vision becomes pretty dark.

Black & white = On/Off (No emotions)
Punish = Live or Die
Understand = Heal (Emotions)

The most crucial part of each day is when you fall asleep.
Because if you fall asleep with feelings of failure, this will become the dominant impression on your subconscious.

So what happens when you die?
When you no longer have the ability to wake up and alter these perceptions? If you die with feelings of failure regarding your own life? Well, Energy can't die.

So you leave with these energies stuck. These energies has to be transformed and transmuted. By the children. By the next generation. This is why we heal everything inside of us, our ancestral energy. It's all happening now. All the time.

This is why it seems like you are taking on and feeling like you heal so much more than yourself. Because you are.

It's all love. It's all about love.

All that you do in the name of love affects everything around it. And sadly also in the opposite direction.

Because it's all connected.

We are all connected.

We are all one.

The rational mind and identity/personality is a construct of the mind existing solely within it. By definition a greater understanding involves emotional perspectives and thus connects us all as it is without borders. No conceptual framework.

Abstract. Forever changing. Free.

Love.

I used to have a devilish thought about jumping from a building. Just falling backwards to a certain end. But in that vision I also receive a phone-call in mid air. It's from somebody wanting to see me. That want's me to stay.

That was God.

And so here I am. Writing for love.

Am I a sorry piece of shit?
A self-absorbed human being thinking only of himself?

No.

But growing up I was more frequently told when I did bad than when I did good. There was more focus on my failure than on my success. And as a young human being we cannot differentiate between what we do and who we are.

So, coming from that feedback.

I must be bad. Whatever I do.

I think that is the main reason for me feeling bad about myself and also the catalyst behind my projections creating a world from my subconscious supporting those convictions.

I have chased acknowledgement. Attention. Fame. Career.
Material possessions. Financial abundance. All my life.

But those were all illusions distracting me from finding myself.
I can never attract what I cannot feel.
So, If I was you..

I'd make that my number 1 priority.

Because when you've cleared out all that is speaking against you?
Everything contradicting you as a unique expression of love?

Everything will be there for you.

In the name of love.

God bless you
