

Excited

It's great feeling!

I believe that we sometimes confuse excitement with anxiety and worry. And that is what becomes when there is no faith. No belief in the unseen. No optimism regarding the future. Because if you take worry and anxiety combined with an absolute conviction of something marvelous it actually becomes excitement! It's a little bit like danger but you want it because of the thrill. Like a rollercoaster! You might build up some anxiety and worry as you're standing in line. And as you take your seat and get locked in there is no turning back as the train starts going uphill. And right before the first drop in tremendous acceleration you will get the most out of the experience if you turn that into excitement. Now a rollercoaster is just a metaphor for anything really. You might want to ask a girl out for a date or just tell her that she is beautiful. And right before you do that you are kind of standing in line. And when you begin to talk to her you are heading up that hill. Your heart builds up pressure and you wish for a rush! A rush of love! You are excited and expecting a positive result! What you wish for is joy and gratitude! And the pressure is somewhat released but still keeps you excited and thrilled about what's gonna happen next! Do you feel me on this? Can you get that feeling from reading and imagining this? Can you feel that buzz in your chest and that excitement in your heart?

Well congratulations! You've just created your own antidepressant. And even more so! You have conjured up so much positive and loving emotions that you are now.. ATTRACTIVE! Yes! You are now attractive to what you dream of! Because what in the world will come at you when you aren't excited about life?

If you're not excited at all? Just zero. None. Maggots will come at you. In darkness.

If you're excited just at all? Just totally. Full. All love will come at you. In sunshine.

The problem for most people is that they need something to be excited about and waste their whole lives as everything seems to be a disappointment. Nothing happened.. So that means close the shades and stop believing.. NO!

Open those shades and start believing for a miracle! Like being alive and experiencing life! That's a miracle in and of itself. To be in the state of just a smooth 'I can't wait to see what happens next, I'm sure it will be fantastic' with a smile on your face is attractive. Things happen for you. Because you are connected.

Connected to what?

To love silly! You are connected to God. You are connected to good as you are feeling good. And the more good you feel the more good you'll get in a universe of attraction. If you walk around feeling great it's no surprise what's gonna happen from that? Great things! Wow! Amazing!

Just don't be crazy about it! Keep that great spirit in your heart and walk around in wonder with that smile on your face and that's it! If you see something lovely acknowledge that! Give love. Share love. Or else love doesn't exist. Love dies when we aren't creating it. We make love exist. We make the unseen exist. We make God exist. We make good exist. We make great exist.

As we feel all these things inside ourselves and just can't help to feel that way about everything else around us! Just like.. God!

That's how God feels! That's Godmode! In appreciation and adoration! Wanting to give you the world! Wishing to sun-kiss you all over! Wanting to praise and celebrate you for being you! Sharing everything you go thru in this rollercoaster called life. The ups and downs and errthang! Always in good spirit though! Always looking out for you! Always caring and wanting the best for you!

And actually have the possibility to give it to you whenever! If you join forces? And connect? Then you are covered! In sunshine! In gold! In success! Because you choose to be optimistic and excited. Because you believe and have faith! And miracles come true! All from your positive participation in your own life.

THAT! Is a sweet deal. That's the sweetest deal I can ever think of. That is just so sweet and loving I can hardly believe it. Oh I just feel so much gratitude! And can you believe that this is what creates all that? I mean C'mon!!! What kind of deal is this? It's a winning deal right of the bat! You can't lose!

Unless you make the wrong choice. And that's up to you. So choose love. It's not corny. Being all gloomy stuck in heavy thoughts that's corny.. So please I ask you.

To pray and give thanks to the source of all creation.
Call it what you want just don't be condescending.

I suggest calling it something lovely.
I say God because God is Love. And Love is God.
That's as lovely as it gets I think? Calling something lovely, Love.

God. Love. Makes it all alright. As you choose it and join forces. Because you are love yourself so it cannot go wrong. You will NEVER have to fall on your knees in submission. You just feel that you really want to, in gratitude and humility for what is giving you everything. Once you understand that of course.

Give yourself to God/Love and you shall receive everything. That's the plan from the beginning and will always be the plan as you are having a human experience. What that becomes doesn't matter at all! Because you will be in so much love and gratitude that you'll simply just love it. All in adoration and appreciation wanting to eat the whole world like a cake.

That's how healing God is when you keep connected and ask for freedom!
Just don't give up! Keep thanking God for everything! And all works out!

Exciting times! Exciting times indeed!

The time right now is 02:18 and I have slept about 4 hours. And I am a bit bummed that it's not like 7 or 8 so I can get a cup of coffee and just walk outside and enjoy the day! Isn't that amazing! And it's midsummer here in Sweden but I've got no plans and no money. But I am so happy anyway! What am I supposed to be? I understand that I get what I give. So I thank God for a magical and wonderful day before it has even begun. And I pray that I will get to talk to someone outside on my walk and say something nice. Maybe I will get the opportunity to complement someone on how they look? That makes them feel good and it makes me feel great. Because I love to give. I love love. I love God. I love life.

Thank you God for showing me. For guiding me. And for teaching me how to find the love, teach the love, preach the love. And also how I can keep the love. Fill your cup for success. The greatest success you'll ever find is to feel happy! Loving free. Free to love. For no specific reason. Just happy and in love. Great-mode.

I fell asleep again. I gotta have that sleep anyway to have the energy lasting me thru-out the day.. But as I woke up just now I thought about that sweet deal again. What makes that deal possible is the real deal.

It's a real deal. Keepin' it real that is.

You gotta stop bullshitting. You gotta be real. Don't lie. Confess it all. Express yourself and get everything out. Don't make excuses. Just come clean. Come true in order to come thru. And from there keep it real.

And you'll still receive that sweet deal. I love you.

/ Leo Rosenblad, Gods Son

Now some MacGyver! (Original)
Who the hell is MacGyver!?

Someone I'm a big fan of. He's all about optimism, faith & making things right. He's a really good guy. I bet he feels great. 😊 Even when he's not working.

Always Good Enough. Just like God made him. Then he adds the extra care, because he's got love to spare. I'm beginning to identify myself with him. Only in my authentic expression. How kool would it be if MacGyver looked up to me? Wow.

An episode of MacGyver is not exciting and adventurous if I look out the window instead. It needs my presence and dedication. My undivided attention. Just like your own life is. Not as a big Ego. But as an appreciator loving everything. What is there to appreciate when all of what is to appreciate is not in focus? Try it and see for yourself. Literally. It's difficult to love someone if their heart and soul is not in focus. And it's hard to give away what you do not have. You do the math on that one. No need for rocket science. But it becomes a bit like dismantling a bomb. Time is ticking. Your life depends on you. Or else you die. Or walk dead. So live!

MacGyver has the best theme song. Listen and understand that energy. It's a perfect match to a human being feeling great and all excited from living a bit outside the box not knowing what's gonna happen. All in optimism. All in optimal conditioning. All in faith. Positive and upbeat! By choice and receives it all!

We need love. But to survive on self love alone? Is to me not a life worth living.
But you would get love unless you acknowledge love inside yourself.

You get what you give.

There is a girl I meet here in KRP sometimes and we smile at each other. I would like to stop her and just say:

You are so magical! I think you are so beautiful and you deserve to hear that everyday!

And when I think about that it makes me feel so much love inside myself. Because as much as I wanna give that to her I want to receive that myself. So to live in lack and completely out of love when you are alone is to never say those things to yourself. Or maybe you kind of do but have a hard time believing them. Keep stating them to yourself! Keep giving yourself love and appreciation. And absorb that love! Take that to heart! Feel it as much as possible like the Universe was blasting it out into the cosmos because that is actually completely true! That's the truth and what God says about you! That's what love itself says about you!

So stop yourself when you pass by the mirror and say:

You are so magical! I think you are so beautiful and you deserve to hear that everyday! You are worthy of all the beautiful things you could possibly imagine! If you just believe in that, if you just take that to heart and believe in what is true about yourself you will see it all happen! That's a promise!

You know the feeling of having a crush on someone! And you just can't wait to see them. You are so filled with love and adoration and just wanna be together with them. Ride that emotion inside yourself. Ride that love train. Ride that rollercoaster that's just about to fall in loving arms. Feel that inside your heart and everything will come to you. As you take care and value yourself. As you feel worthy of receiving. As you are in love.

And just like MacGyver! Things will just turn up! Things and people that make for the next step in life. In you becoming more spiritually. In you wanting to live with more love. A life of experiencing more. Which is all about feeling. And to feel what you value the most, which is love. So as you value that inside your heart you feel worthy. Because you hold on to the most precious thing in life. Like a crush just don't crush it. Hold it like a flower. In grace and gratitude. In love. 🌸