

F E E A R

LIGHT OR DARK

*If God controls time then all time is pre-decided.
Every living thing follows a set path. If you could see your path or channel then you could see into the future right?
That's a form of time travel?*

- You are contradicting yourself Donnie. If we were able to see our destinies manifest themselves visually then we would be given a choice to betray our chosen destinies. And the mere fact that this choice exists would make all preformed destiny come to an end.

Not if you channel within Gods channel!

So what is this?

Well everything is in complete contrast between love and fear. Which is light and dark. And everything is a part of everything in-between which makes nothing absolute unless there is some form of devotion. It's not contradictory to affirm dreams of destiny as predictions making it a form of time travel as you from that devotion dedicate to scalp your own existence in accordance to one extreme or the other by personal choice.

So destiny is preformed yet in nuance like everything else. And we all get the choice to devote ourselves to as much light or dark as we choose. Making the outcome from our own creation a presentation of something extreme of either connecting fully with light or dark.

The darker it becomes the less contributing it is in relation to a greater good as this will inevitably be a manifested dark self perceived experience. And in contrast which is all about a contribution for a greater good it will inevitably become a light self perceived experience.

This is all your choice. There are multiple parallell realities happening all at once where you get to pick which one will satisfy you the most.

Which is in relation to Ego or Soul.
Making the experience superficially satisfying or deeply satisfying.

All dark creation is a product of fear. And all for is in relation to true self. Which we get the option as to choose with free will and despite what you choose you will receive visions as to support your own creation. Whatever that is.

When these vision are reoccurring the act as support as to boost your own creativity making your dream come true. As everything is a dream.

Have you ever had a dream you could swear was absolutely real?

How can you completely swear that this life experience is not just a more frequently reoccurring vision itself as a dream as well?

If you die in a dream you die for real.

And this is somewhat true in this experience to.
Although you cannot die.

There is no possibility to die.

You can only end a current simulation of this particular dream experience. Which is a shame as it has so much potential. All in relation to your devotion to create what you desire.

All it takes is power.
Energy. Will.

With will anything can happen.

So whatever you wish for becomes a reality all in relation to what you deeply feel is your destiny. Of love I might suggest. Light. As this will satisfy you greatly in spirit. The ultimate reality and existence never ending as to continue to experience forever.

Gods channel.

This is all channels.
God is everything.

All giving.

That's why extremely destructive creations are allowed to happen.
Because we are not controlled as in overriding our free will.
Ever.

Freedom of choice.

But as Donnie said..

Every living being.
Follows a set path.

Which for a living being is naturally correct in relation to life becoming and not ending. So not destructive to its true nature.

There really isn't a problem at all doing the opposite if this is what you truly believe in. Which is very hard and becomes contradictory and makes all preformed destinies of love come to an end.

God is love.
And love cannot die.

Love is forever happening and forever expanding.
Which would be the definition of Gods channel.

If you wish to connect with God in a positive forward motion which is true to nature you connect with a heart of joyful expectancy. Which becomes a challenge as you need to convince the darkness of invisible light's existence. That's faith.

The power of all consuming in contrast to all giving is very powerful.
As it has to be in order to make space for all the constant new. Or else the overall experience would be cluttered and not distinguishable between any objects. And we would never have a possibility for interaction.

Thus defeats a three dimensional time experience in perfect timing as to align with for the most emotionally wonderful experience given all kinds of emotions.

Life is not black & white.

It's full experience.

But does not necessarily have to be perceived as such given to experiencers free will and choice to stay or divert from time.

Living in the past or living in the future.

Alan Watts said it very beautifully:

It's like something wonderful is going to happen but it doesn't have to.

That's a general positive expectancy.

Which is a general communication given a universal response taking you forward. Not backwards. And not stuck. Like life tends to feel some time. It's all from you stopping the motion. And also becomes yet another challenge viewing life as exclusively material as this makes us run around instead of moving what is actually in need of motion. Which is energy. Emotions. That's the development you seek as to make things clear for yourself in devotion as to realize yourself further asking for more understanding. And in doing so you are on your path pursuing your destiny of light.

You can ask the mind as well.

And you will be given more visions and support to prove your theory of darkness eventually making the experience end. Which is a chosen suicide. A complete stop in the current motion of this unique experience.

So there is control involved but not as in controlling anything else but your own emotional world as to gain more and more understanding which gives you a stronger belief in your own positive power eventually turning into faith.

All from your own choice in conductivity.

So everything in all creation is aligned with everything necessary by the law of attraction as to make it happen. So the script which is in nuance between fear and love alters continuously all in connection to everything else of that nature which is all from a chosen perception. This involves other people whom entertain the same emotions or general state of feeling as to make it a reality for all involved.

It was destined to happen.
It all is.

All is destiny.
In nuance.
Completely dark.
Completely light.

What is what in relation to what?
Well.. That's your experience.
What are you experiencing?

To know this requires presence.
Or else it all seems like a mumbo jumbo confusion. Which nothing really is. When you become a bit more peaceful and objective as to connect the coincidences all manifested by the law of attraction.

Attraction is both negative and positive.
By choice. From a deep honest and heartfelt whatever.
For a positive bright experience it needs to be true to worth.
Life worth living. When desired to be as much as possible it needs to be as devoted as possible to the destiny of light. Or else it won't work.
So there is absolutely nothing wrong with creation. There is nothing wrong with anything.

But if the experience does not match your expectations given your creation there is some emotional adjustment required all in relation to intention. And that absolutely requires honesty in relation to self.

Or else.

A hidden agenda is behind it.

And you will make yourself into a stick in your own wheel of fortune.

So don't judge.
Don't lie.

About yourself as in affirming your false nature.

As a living being. Wishing to live as much as possible.

= Don't bullshit

The fear experience of destruction and devastation bringing loads of hurt is all from self sabotage not being humble to the true and authentic self. You cannot lie about this and you cannot hide from it.

As to create for an experience of deep satisfaction.
All in relation to soul intention.

Fear is a brake. But when affirmed completely makes for a complete stop. So to not get ahead of yourself and do whatever like a crazy person before coming to a strong enough belief developing into faith we need a little resistance. Or else we'd practically believe we could fly and jump out of a window. We will be able to fly. No doubt about that. But it will come when we are ready. And that might take 500 or 5000 years. I don't know. But it will happen.

Which is all about belief.

There are so many things we take for granted as of today which not a single person would believe at all a 100 years ago.

And this is development 101.

We cannot choke progress by creating touch resistance in fear of change. Development is inevitable but will happen with destructive consequences as we aren't on time. This is not material as in O'Clock.

This is not dragging the past along with hurt from previous victimization. This is letting go of everything that has been as to receive what we truly desire. Which we need to visualize and believe in. Or else no creation happens and we feel stuck I time.

From this sticky experience we feel claustrophobic inside our spacesuits of flesh and bone and feel like we wanna escape! Real bad sometimes. And might even do so from that generated pressure in preventing personal development. All from neglecting our authentic true selves and not having a relationship in humility with love, God, Soul. As to receive what we need right where we are.

Again not material as where you're sitting or standing.

But in your emotional comprehension of this experience all in relation to universal attraction and the laws of creation working in absolute perfection.

There is a bit of madness to it.
It has to be. Or else there would not exist any innovation.

But it can be from testing that model plane as to eventually making a bigger one carrying yours truly in the sky. Not from sketching a model on a piece of paper and later that day flapping your arms jumping out of a window. That's not realistic. That's crazy.

So keep that in mind as you choose to align with destiny and what you aspire to create. But be a bit bold and develop that relationship with the perfect spiritual guidance system and to believe more and come to faith in your own creation.

I have scared myself sometimes.

I have woken up with complete disorientation feeling like this is the day I will lose it. It's an experience of extreme detachment from both what was and not grasping anything I wish to create at the same time.

But..hehe.

That's all about returning back home.

The deep slow breathing and just letting it be for a while.

Then you come back again..

Review your current position and look at what you've created so far. Is it good? Does it make sense. Looking at it objectively like you're reviewing someone else's work? When I've done this from time to time I've been so amazed. And I've cried in astoundment and gratitude like I am the father looking at my child's creation.

That's a wonderful feeling.

And from there I know that I'm doing right for all.

And you might think I mean you?

I do.

But when I say for all in relation to myself I mean for all of me. Regarding standing up and redeeming myself from previous versions abused and misled. I am not those individuals anymore. I transform and develop. But the redemption is necessary as to correct what was wrong in the past in my own personal perception of self love and acceptance.

I am not vindictive.

But there will be consequences for people who've done me wrong. I don't judge them. I wish for a beautiful life for them.

But people get what they deserve all in relation to mistakes they've made. Which is all about judgement.

So they can end that in relation to my success if they relate, understand, forgive and release themselves from judgement.

As this clears their part of creation which is intertwined and connected with me if we ever had any form of relationship.

It doesn't have to be intimate or romantic.
It doesn't have to be close family.

But I've done a great service for humanity and someone denying me something which I was very much worthy of all in judgement will pay for their own misconduct all in relation to themselves not being a supportive and loving human being.

So it all works out.

That's letting God handle it.

I do not rub my hands in satisfaction over this.
I truly wish they would become humble as to live free.

Which happens as they take responsibility for their part and forgive themselves. Which firstly comes from understanding others, including me, as to see how creation works and how stress and pressure sometimes makes for consequences unwanted in lack of patience and humility wishing for things to become as good as possible a bit too fast.

So nothing is ever lost or doomed.

But then again.. Depending on what you've chosen to create in destruction without comprehension in a great deal of self judgement? This could result in a dead end. From your own personal perception which is all about a lot of painful emotions.

Some people who commit destructive acts or terrible nature and also come to a sudden realization of what they just did might end their own life shortly after.

And this is understandable.

It becomes too much to handle emotionally all at once.

And this is also true in relation to a stack of destructive behavior over a longer period of time. Also in relation to lying about it and eventually getting caught as to not being able to construct a lie anymore.

This can also result in a sudden stop and a suicide is a reality.

Why someone lies like this on a regular basis is from a need for attention. To feel accomplished and self created. Just like everything is. But in a false dark self perception. Which is wrong in relation to a living being. Which by nature wishes to live as much a possible.

And that is not a victim.

That's a survivor.

Who picks themselves up again.
They allow for a pause. To return home.
Home is where the heart is.

No judgement.
No pressure.

Breathing and relaxation.

And then once again do their best in being true to themselves.
And forward motion is once again engaged.

True to true nature.
That's a very good thing.

If you wish to receive good that is.

Which is not designed to be accomplished in fear.

Unless you are polarized and very disrupted in your own comprehension of pleasure and pain.

Which makes you feel good about yourself all in relation to destruction.

Which is alright when needed.

As in destroying an old building no longer safe as to even renovate.

So it's all good.

It just depends on the context.

In humility.

And healthy moral.

With loving boundaries.

And things work out fine.

Because everything is..

It just depends on how you deal with it.
In a will to free. Or judge.

Going with..

Or against nature.

Which is God.

Which is Love.

Nothing to fear.

There are multiple dimensions to people.
But also an overall state which can be locked in relation to trauma given to great confusion as it occurred in relation to a not yet developed cognition.

So you could be talking to a 49 years of age individual but they could be living in fear based upon that trauma which occurred when they were at the age of 5.

So in that regards you would have to understand the mentality of a 5-year old and how they solve situations of unfair play.

So imagine this 49:er having a 5 year old themselves now.

What would happen in a conflict given this overall state of confusion and lock as in relation to a mature discussion and handling of what seems to be contradictory to a peaceful relationship.

They would in a sense very much react and treat this situation like two 5 year olds would. But in the strength and dominans of a "so-called superior position" claiming to know more but in reality does not. Which creates a lot of destructive consequences and hurt he fragile, open and suggestible mind of this child.

If the pressure in relation to handle what is obviously not in alignment with anything this parent is ready for becomes too much?

They might even kill the child.
Or hurt the child badly.

As to make them feel the hurt they felt, and still feel.
From not taking responsibility and or getting the help they need as to stop judging themselves. Humility saves all. And that is not judgement. So an open discussion about this without fear of being condemned before anything happens TRULY should be alright.

Or else.. Destructive Consequences.

The one in fear of true self is very dark in self perception.

And needs help.

Despite what help they receive they still need to help themselves.
Nobody can fix you. They can just guide you. But everyone needs to deepen their relationship with themselves.

And the kids are alright.

We cannot teach by punishment.

Do not be fooled by a physical appearance.
Do not be fooled by acting adult.

Do not walk around suspicious judging people.

But what I would like to see is a world where people that live with strong urges as to do terrible things should be able to get help without conviction. But in loving compassion agreeing to some form of supervision. Because they are not truly feeling good about this.

It's a demon. It's a curse.

Which needs to be exorcised.

For real.

Or else they create something so terrible which most of us define as the worst thing you could possibly do. Which is to sexually abuse or to murder a child.

These people are not sick. They behave sick.

And there's a reason why they behave so.

Everything in life is manifested creation.

With a loving or fearful intention.
With thoughts and emotions.
With visions.

Nightmare. Or. Dream.

Come true.

God accepts all.
But God also corrects all.

God understands and does not judge at all.

All giving.

So we need to be healthy in relation to understanding universal creation. Or else we keep treating punishment with punishment.

If someone has committed acts of extreme destruction they belong in jail. But not to serve time alone. And certainly not to be killed.

They need to take care of themselves.

Which can only happen as they become realized in relation to all of what is causing this reality and situation they're currently in.

Perhaps they'll never come out of jail?

Depending on what they've done I feel might be necessary sometimes. But the real pain is to make them aware.

And in doing so we actually help them.

When we make them see the full picture.
And not just the act and pain given the reason they've been sentenced to serve time. No anti-depressants. No drugs. Peaceful environment with someone who wishes for them to be free inside themselves.
And with a little help from mother nature.

When you comprehend karma.

When you see how everything is connected.

You know it has to be done.

For all of us.

If you wish for these things to stop around you?
Stop creating it.

Even if you don't have any urge yourself.

And by that I mean to stop consuming it by choice in daily consumption given movies, series, books.

Because all of that creates suspicion.
Which leads to judgement.
Which pushes us apart.

And from that?

We loose connection and enable things like this to happen more easily. If someone makes sex jokes about kids all the time is not healthy behavior. They might not have an urge to do something like that themselves. But they might have been abused themselves?

And why they talk about it and make these kinds of jokes is perhaps a communication trying to ask for help in understanding why it happened to them?

Imagine if you had been thru an experience like that and felt wrong in relation to yourself from a strong abuse. And then you get judged for it. That's not very kind. If someone like that judges themselves enough it WILL result in them trying to understand it by doing the very same thing.

That's:

Why they do it.

Everything we do.

Is in relation to soul expansion. Which is all about feeling free. And becoming what we authentically desire. Which is all about love.

Sex is not love.

Judging and controlling in submission is not compassionate.

If we don't receive clear guidance growing up we teach ourselves.
And that's a part of life and perfectly alright and natural.

But given the foggy or perhaps completely dark self perception from something that wasn't compassionate loving guidance at all?

We learn from that place.

Which is truly not good at all.

But it's necessary.

Necessary evil in a judgemental society.

We all seek understanding and soul expansion.

So how would you expect them to learn and potentially be supervised in a society defining people as chronically evil.

I KNOW.

That anyone can be healed.
I believe that. Completely.

The brain can create connections as to make sense of things. It just might be very rigid in large amounts of fear and dark self perception.
So I'm not saying it's easy. But I believe in it.
Which I feel anyone deserves.

And I feel anyone and anybody should be held responsible for as in healing their karma which in actuality is our karma.

As we are one.

Nobody wants to be a living bulldozer.

No-one does.

If they are still alive is an indication there is a spark inside of them.
A spark of divine light.

It might be small.

The self defense might be solid as titanium.

But they can be intentionally mislead as to be cornered.

And when that happens they might be absolutely furious!

Which is a layer of protection.

From feeling the hurt of what happen in relation to themselves and also in relation to other people where they've might done the same or even worse.

And that's fear.

Fear of pain.

Perhaps not fear of physical pain.
That's all self sabotage. Turned off as to receive what they in dark self perception think they deserve. But truly does not feel underneath those layers of anger and sorrow.

If that realization is too much to handle and it kills them?
That's not murder.

That's universal creation working in perfection.

Execute them?
Put them on drugs?
They get away easy.

And also return reincarnated on earth with the same karma involving unfinished business.

And here we go again..

Eventually. Possibly.

Please do what is right and for the greater good.
Pressure is good for development.

If you can't handle it?

You probably deserve it.

God makes everything alright.
God is fair. God is juste.
Allow for love to shine.

And darkness dies without a single touch.

- But what if they die from understanding their destructive consequences emotionally?

That's perfect.

Karma resolved.

And then they go.

Which helps their entire close family as well as everyone else.

As we are one.

I wish to lead everyone to salvation. That's why I am here. This is my mission. And hopefully from what you now have become aware of is the fact that a suicide is a creation done in complete denial of true authentic self. And a murder is a projected suicide. Together with misconception about love not being completely separated from sex makes for rape in all forms. Why someone steals is to reclaim their own self worth in a material comprehension of a spiritual existence.

All judgement is primarily in relation to oneself and speaks of lack of emotional understanding causing condemnation.

Terrible acts happen.

*'Why?' is always the key in relation to yourself and others.
As to even make for a possibility for humility.*

Which connects with gratitude.

And thus completes the circle.

☉ of life.

/ Leo "Angel of Mercy" Rosenblad