

Murder:

Individuals whom get a thrill out of killing other people. Are individuals so afraid.

This is the only way for them to feel excitement in relation to life.

By taking it as in being so distant from it.

Life is love. Love is joy.

They find joy in killing.

Because that's all they can ever feel in relation to loving life so filled with fear of the light. But does not know what that is for real. Not feeling any joy at all. But think they do. Not knowing the difference. They don't give a shit. Because they honestly don't care for themselves as in feeling worthy of living. The murder is a lesson to be learned. By coming so close to actually doing it but instead becoming present and feeling the fear of the victim. Whom is equally afraid which makes for this attraction.

It's like hide and seek for them. They seek but remain hidden. From themselves as in true authentic light perception. And terminate instead of freeing what they find as to keep going on. Living is dark as they do. But never stop to realize anything. It's the greatest challenge of all. For us. Not for them. Initially. When recognizing this early. And not letting it get out of control. Catching them young. And showing them love, of self.

You have to forgive them. They know not what they do. That's not the same as accepting their behavior. But looking past the material. And feeling for the child, the soul being within. Whom lives in terror inside. But from lack of humility prevents them to feel. As they are so afraid of the light. Afraid of love.

You can stop them by loving them. For real.

They hurt love. As much as possible. That's how hurt they are from neglect of true self.

Naturally. Making them behave: Unnatural.

Demonic behavior from almost complete dark self perception affirmed.

Live - Evil - Evil - Live

Light - Dark - False - True

Give - Take - End - Begin

Birth - Death - Fear - Love

All part of the story. And necessary. We need to fear death as to prevent catastrophic behavior. That's good.

But when we are so distant from it like someone so full of fear.

We become death..

In order to see the light. Which is as messed up as it gets. Keep punishing them. And they learn absolutely nothing at all. It just adds to this dark perception. Making them feel accomplished. As in being who they think they are. Not knowing what they is.

Which is love.

There is no reason to fear death. As death does not exist. We simply cannot die. But we truly should be concerned about losing what we are supposed to cherish most.

Which is life.

/ I am : Sorry - John Wayne Gacy

(That was the most terrifying lucid dream I've ever had. And in this dream I could not have stopped and told him I love him. Even if I meant it. Because that would have been completely foreign to him. He never knew what love is)

And for that.. I am so sorry.

It was never meant to be John. People just didn't take the time. To be present enough. And truly see how hurt you was. From not being spiritual, intuitive and actually feeling you as a young boy. Instead they judged you. Condemned you. Like you condemned yourself. Thinking so low of yourself. In that dark self perceived experience.

I do not accept a single act of destruction. But I understand. And I forgive you as you actually did not know what you did. As you did not feel your true nature.

You are now free. Welcome back to life.

I can't even imagine! What kind of extraordinary being of love you will be this time. Born so rich. In spirit.

/ Messiah (with a headache @ 03:33)

They kill as the ones they kill do not deserve to live. Which is all projection. Of themselves feeling unworthy for living. But so distant from their own emotions, they can't tell the difference. A kid can learn this. An adult to. But as this becomes a stronger conviction over time.. They need love. I can't forgive someone locked up from my comprehension and let them walk free. It doesn't work like that. But I can help them realize themselves. And thus setting them free. As they find forgiveness in relation to themselves. Which will kill them. Braking their spirit which is OK and *necessary being completely false. And they come to God. They might perceive me as evil doing this. But again..

From total misconception.*

Of love.

I met a new friend today and her dog Meji. The cutest Collie. I also met a man with extreme fear and connected with his Dog. Which both triggered the lucid labyrinth later where I was chased by a killer Clown.

Everything happens for a reason. All is connected and serves a purpose. If you dismiss this? There might be a little Gacy in you. For real..

Prior to this lucid experience as I was about to fall asleep. Sacred chanting ancient voices came to me. They where so deep and real the frightened me. The catalyst. For what happened later.

Thank you 💖

When we truly want to receive life we allow for it. Which means not holding on to it. And that's all about emotional understanding living free without judgement. That's the hold. That's the old. Makes it cold. Love is warmth. Closer to the sun. Inside out, no doubt. What youz about? 😊

There is no such thing as positive stress. Stress is always negative. But you can feel excitement and push development. From understanding the reward in relation to commitment. That's all good. Doctors know physics, anatomy, flesh and bone. But from here on should shut da fuck up. Regarding what they know shit about. And be humble.

To begin with that you need this:

What is humble?

If there is anything I don't understand I do not create an explanation for it with a label?

?

But you do that. That's called judgement.

Do you understand why? It's because you fail to say I don't know. Which isn't hard at all. But you don't wanna look bad with all that knowledge. So you do this and kill people. That's not responsible. That's immature.

/ Leo