The desire for complete sexual freedom but all in judgement of self with such severe self loathing thus making for extreme self sabotage. A very deeply rooted sexual offense all in relation to sensitivity.

Which in relation to worthy (life is what we value the most) all in a sexual context is pretty descriptive in the nature of this type of acting. So so sorry.. so so unworthy. Worthless. Somebody not deserving a warm meal deluxe. Butt longs for it still in confusion.

A world of hurt experienced by us all, one spirit. When judged and not understood. Behavior not OK, but needs to be set free. All is attraction. Feelings of emptiness inside. The desire for sexual freedom (material) is a part of living but the core of that is freedom all together (spiritual). Freedom to live without judgement of self.

Manifested feeling of unworthy becomes ungrateful in lack of humility but is fear of self all in self-judgement. 'I like cold dead bodies' is highly unnatural. It's important to believe yourself.

- All of this came to me in a dream. In the dream I was applying for a job as a cook at an institution that held people with this kind of behavior. I was in the waiting hall when I spoke to an older lady whom was employed there. She told me I could talk to the boss at 10:30. She was very understanding. Which made her attractive for this job. There was also a gentleman. He was dressed as a pirate with painted skin to look purple. He wanted to leave and desired to take the table with him for no specific reason. Perhaps just to get something out of it?

That's what I got out of that dream without judgement. Just in peace waking up at 02 AM wondering what it all meant.

To feel deserving of being worthy of all one cannot be judged by themselves. They need to be understood and to become that they need to express themselves in a non-judgemental environment which is understanding. Behavior is behavior. Nobody is sick.

(Can you imagine there are people judging me for having tendencies towards behaving necro based upon my dream. And yet still not acknowledge themselves as judgemental but still wish to live in a free world of love where things like this do not exist.) I have not eaten for 5 days now. But give me a kebab while discussing this and I won't feel like eating. What are you willing to look at and how do you choose to look at it?

PS.

When someone lacks tender loving motor-skills in physical touch. They lack sensuality. Which is not being in touch with their emotions. Also because of not feeling worthy for life at the core. But won't resolve it themselves because it hurts so much to face the truth in their own misconduct in relation to themselves. So they become hard and robotic instead.

It's all fear and love. Love is free. Fear is all judgement. Dark perception. Lack of understanding. In confusion that it's accepting of behavior having a narrow rational mind without color as to see things more abstract which presents more perspectives and sheds light from other ways of seeing things and not only just as black and white.

What do you value the most in relation to life and what actually creates it. How much do you know about that and can you identify with that? I am talking about unconditional love. If you've read the website you truly madly deeply should understand that.

Call that God as to define as Supreme yet in all humility without comparison and completely free.

God is the same as?..

Taking lives. Taking whatever.. is taking back. But in lack of humility. So this becomes no fight against crime. But an understanding emotionally, actually humane as to prevent things before they happen. Not to punish. Even though incarceration is sometimes necessary. But still.. a greater understanding benefits all. As we are one together spiritually.

Money should be a manifestation of love. Not something we acquire as to look successful and make that into a loving life. That's primarily material and not spiritual. When spiritual primarily we receive money from loyal positive conductivity. Which we spend and use wisely now that we cherish and hold love the highest which was the origin and true foundation creating the manifestation.

Know what is what. And do that by heart. Because the heart knows and the mind thinks. A thought can change. Knowledge does not. Knowing is emotional and comes from experience. Which makes for living a life fully. Intensely which is emotionally. Human. Humane. Understanding. Humble. Freeing. Not judging.

Full of color. But love the black and white as well which no human being is and never has been and never will be. Aiight?.. Aiight.

Everything in life is what we give ourselves. And what we feel worthy of in truth and honesty. Subconsciously. And there you go regarding all behaviors. A mirror of false or correct self perception in relation to what is morally healthy. Knowing what love is. Peace in, Peace out.

I love you all!
