

O'HOY!

JOY OHOY!

The force of nature need not to be forced.

It needs to be allowed. Completely and it will make its way.

The way.

Wu Wei.

When you try to force it you go against it.
Because you are telling it you don't trust it.

But there is nothing else to trust, completely.

So you give it up.
But not in defeat.

You give it up in joy.
And this becomes your signal we call faith.

It's super close now! That's the way to feel all the time. And it puts you in a state of completion despite any effort. What happens is the you make yourself see land from a previous period of lengthy lost at sea. Because it's all attraction. What is super close is not material. It's not a piece of land. It's the joy! You feel the joy. And that's the way to feel all the time. Which is not an effort. Yet makes for all things to resolve. As it is your connection to self. And you are on the right path. The only path. And you allow for things to become materialized. All other paths are sidetracks designed to teach you about love. Which enables all. Which is important to trust but not in tensed worry. So importance becomes something serious yet relaxed. Contrary to what we have made it to, from a perspective of constant performance and achievement. These things does not matter to the universe. What matters is connection. You cannot connect loosely. Connection is connection.

So how to do it?

We believe anything in joy.

Some might discard that like something of a minor sentence. But it's major you see! What comes to you and becomes a reality is what you believe in. And it's impossible to believe for anything in doubt. Doubt is worry all tensed. Faith is trust all relaxed. And feeling joy all worried is not possible either. And makes for joy to be of most relaxing importance as to trust, relax and come to the point of such strong belief which is positive conviction that we simply let it go. And trust the universe. And anything can happen at any time.

It might be today? It might be tomorrow. But it will certainly be never all worried full of doubt. Because that's your communication telling the universe that you are not ready to spring. And you will get a second chance next year. If you decide to keep up whatever you're dreaming about. So in the game of co-creation there is also the factor of what you've actually created. You cannot dream of being a recognized writer without writing anything? Or a musician never played a single note? So the letting it go in absolute conviction of a positive outcome soon to happen is also a part of your own creation. You might feel as if you need to convince people around you. You might feel that your best friend doubts you a little bit. But this is simply resistance. They don't know you as in feel you. They have not seen your visions. They do not have the creation inside themselves. So who do you need to trust in blind faith all in relation to creation? You.

You need blind faith feeling accomplished. Secure in your creation. Proud inside your heart for what you have contributed with. And let it go. The universe will sort the rest. Just enjoy yourself. Enjoy what you have created. Enjoy who you've become. Honor the transformation. Embrace your journey still with what is about to come. But never doubt success. It's yours. Just let it happen. Now. And Now.

I believe that the design making us transform in great challenge is this: We are light beings. But when we close our eyes all we see is dark. It's that simple and that ridiculous. "I cannot be light? When I close my eyes and just be me I am dark". Material living. So you need to believe in what you cannot see. Which is only found in feeling. You feel your way in life. Which becomes difficult as hell when you stress all the time. Because you won't be able to attune to your true self. Which is in constant and forever peace and relaxation. Is it possible to feel joy effortlessly with heavy luggage of judgment? No it's not. So you need to do right for your self and get rid of what's holding you back from this effortless. Letting all the darkness out by allowing for it as to shine the light on the matters.

You connect in joy.

This is how a self affirming independent force of all creation functions. We call love. So pick up the call. Answer love's call. Love is calling for joy connection. And if you answer with doubt love won't have it. "No. Not accepted". Give me what I am. And I'll give you what you wish. Like a stubborn little baby. If you shout at me I will not laugh with you. I laugh all the time. Will you laugh with me? Will you feel like a joke is coming on with me? Which is a definition of expecting something really good. Because good is joy. Hard and heavy with a heavy heart. So do all you can as to purify yourself. By being love in relation to love. Understanding and forgiving. Making things clear. And joy becomes more effortless.

You need to find this naturally.

Anything that affects you making you feel joy from this consumption will create a contrast of not feeling it when you just is. So there is no way to be like in a coma waiting for things to happen. You need to be sincere. Like: I want this! In joy.

I felt many times that I don't care about it personally. And in a way I still do. But then again it's my creed. My destiny. To raise awareness. To contribute to a better world. So again. My personality and my Ego needs to be in the background.

The message comes first.

That's of highest importance. That's why I don't give up. That's why I continue to ask for more and create more. That's why I keep affirming. Because the world need this. Society needs to wake up. And who does not wish to reap the fruits of their labor? Well a martyr. That ain't me. I am not a victim of my circumstances. I am a hero of my circumstances. A genius. I can't listen to anyone else about this.

I NEED TO AFFIRM MYSELF.

IN JOY!

And we go Ship O'hoy.

/ Leo 'Da Vinci' Rosenblad

HEY!

WHY AREN'T YOU WORRIED!!??

- Because I am God.

I am not self destructive.

I trust in self.

Everything is about depth of gratitude.
Which is equivalent to resistance when removed.

And makes for star quality.
As a true reflection.

Possible for anyone.

What are you about?