With your own life on the line

What are you willing to sacrifice? Are you willing to sacrifice everything?

Well, that depends on what right?

What gives you the right?

To mess with other peoples head.

Love does.

Love grants all wishes.

Love is everything.

So are you willing to sacrifice everything for everything?

Should be an obvious and clear cut deal. But for most it is not. For most human beings they want to hold on. They want collateral and to keep that deposit. What they feel they value and that is what they feel strongly for. That is what we value the most. Something we do not value that much or at all we throw away. If we cannot see and feel what that is given it has not yet happened we have to create it.

So that we can feel it so strongly that we take the risk at going for it even when it doesn't even exist. What I'm talking about is giving your life to God in pursuit of your biggest dream. If that was a guaranteed deal of great success you would risk it all in a blink of an eye. And if you could manage to keep the faith continuously you would experience no problems at all. No challenges and simply receive what you desire. And what would the meaning behind everything that happens in one human beings life experience then become? Nothing. A life in idle mode completely ambivalent in relation to anything at all emotionally. No love. No life. What is possible from this point is anything destructive. In relation to oneself and to others. As you simply won't care at all behave with a heart as cold as ice.

So why aren't you caring?

Because it hurts.

It becomes emotional.

It becomes human.

It becomes humane.

And when that gets wind all hell will break loose only to eventually get to heaven.

So you have to take that risk.

You have to invest and keep the faith in everything that is right. That is love.

Or else we lose all humanity.

Are you willing to put your own life on the line for this? Are you willing to sacrifice yourself in what you create and communicate as this will become a New Clear perspective. Or are you misunderstanding absolutely everything and blast the A-bomb?

Both are one and the same.

A creation capable of exploding in great intensity of energy only in a destructive or constructive way. By choice. By sacrifice. Of yourself for all.

Or all for yourself.

Soul or Ego.

The latter one is included in sacrificing yourself for all. As you will join everyone as everything goes fantastic. In your dream of a world of love. Risking everything about how you thought you were and letting God play you like you were designed. You are an instrument of God. You are on a mission.

Not some?

Everyone is.

And that mission is something that is in correlation to your strength. You can do it!

You can do whatever you put your mind to coming from your soul's intention. Which is the contract and script of your life called destiny.

Destiny calls you.

It's the ember voice in the forest that Elsa can't deny.

If she tries to drown that out she'll go crazy and might ask Olaf if he's got some pills or sum?

And he'll be all like. Samantha?

'Cause he can see the real you in you. Just as God can see the real you in you.

So why not keep it real?

Why not be true to who you are and what you wanna do?

Like life was intended to be. To do more of what you want and receive more of those experiences. Because you get what you give if you can risk to sacrifice yourself in being uncomfortable for a while. It hurts to transform in various degrees depending on what your dream is in relation to where you are and what you do.

But as your journey is designed you can take it.

You will not be given more than you can handle.

You just have to feel the change or else you won't get it. And you won't gain the experience and thus not appreciate and understand what eventually is given.

Make sense don't it? Makes for sensations. Sensuality and emotion as you go along. A sensory perceived experience.

So be a little risky. Risk making a fool out of yourself in relation to a personality with convictions firm and rigid. You have to or else it won't come loose. You need to come loose a bit but not completely lose your mind. Just shake it up a bit and let everything fall into place as you wish. Not as you've been told.

They just molded and formed you in relation to their own failed attempt to go for their own dream.

The dream you seek is all about yourself. You are the dream. You living the dream.

So keep dreaming big!

Dream about magnificent things happening and they will as long as you can answer for it. In what you do as in create and how you assume the role of your new self chosen identify while still living in the same body.

Then all of a sudden you will notice the old one falling away like an animal shedding its skin. And you enter into a more accurate and true representation of who you wanna be and what you wanna do.

But if you never go for anything and feel afraid to take the risk nothing will happen. And you will become the one who's 83 years old talking about 'I was a had!'. And your life and chance to do something cool and loving in relation to yourself and others has gone lost.

All by your own choice. All because of not being willing to sacrifice yourself to yourself and be the brave heart going for the dream.

Sorry old fella. By choice.

People can't see your inner visions. And they sure as hell can't feel them.

So you need to support yourself. Be in faith with yourself and the source of all creation. Risking it all for everything you cannot see. Except in your dreams and visions.

Stay true to those. And it's a risk worth taking. No errbody loves your dreams and visions! And they are welcome to join in as you forgive them for not supporting as they did not understand better and could not see or feel what you did.

They didn't wanna risk being with you. Can you see all that?

I choose to stand firm in my belief that love is all giving
So I choose to be a soldier going to war in peace

My main objective is to make myself feel good
And to me that's when you feel good
Or else life becomes pointless

Point = Credit = Value = Love

Above all.

That is not risky business.

That is a solid ultraviolet structure of abstract emotions.

I know that doesn't make sense.

For someone who does not believe in the impossible.
