

Behind - The success

A stressed and tensed mind, blocks all success.
As it makes you question your own creation not in access of your own space of love.

That's why consuming a little bit of alcohol makes you appreciate things more. Like the food, the weather, the music, other people.

When you're mind is relaxed you feel bliss.

This can also happen with consuming a number of different things as to make your mind relax. The most beneficial is to consume enough of it. Keeping you aware and not numbed to miss out on the experience.

So drunk or super high on a regular basis won't do this.

The absolute best way to do this is to leave your mind alone.
To live in a state where all is new which is not judging anything at all.

It's all good!

As you can see from this you are in control.
Not the mind.

You set the tone of the experience by choosing the emotion and the mind reacts as to adjust its ways in creation to give you what you (by feeling) ask for.

So 'Behind the success' is truly behind the tension.

You are the energy, inseparable.
And you choose your emotion.

So it's a subtle control of maintaining good spiritual posture.
In control of your emotions.

Which gets easier as you practice and get to know the one thing you need.
Which is love. What is love? Learn more about it and by unlearning what it isn't you become more secure and trustworthy within your own system and the mind lets you go. By you being loyal to self. Which is superior but not in control.

So the mind can trust you to leave it be.
This is access and you continuously will be given.
More and more as you become more and more.

Of what you truly is, which is love.

You can kick and scream!
You can state that you know!
You can claim to be the knowledgeable one!

But as long as this is not in peace?

The mind holds the grip.

For safety reasons.
Not for being unworthy or unloved?

But for not being deserving all in relation to self.

Which knows all, sees all.

Namely without name: God.

Which is you in your true and authentic being.

So how do we access our true and authentic being giving us all?

We relate with it.

We communicate with it in humility as to receive more and more information about what love ain't. Because life confuses us and makes us technological way too much.

Which is in our current comprehension of love not free and a technological society becomes. There is nothing wrong with it? But a respirator is not a necessity. And living inside your phone isn't either.

What is the meaning of life?

To experience it.
To enjoy it.

To suffer? Fuck off you fucking Buddha fuckheadz.

Try living.

You are supposed to live your life.
Not sit in meditation talking about life being all about complaining.

There is no way.

It's your way.
You path.

Live it. Do it. Go thru all the confusion.

And liberate yourself by coming to clearance with your mind in loyal and honest comprehension of what love is. And from there it's all more experiences of now a more interesting adventure than a bunch of setbacks and obstacles.

We love to be challenged!

And we love our own challenge.
If we see that it is.

And more so when we understand that we created it ourselves before we came here.

And that is our own God given destiny.

That's the success already given at birth.
So claim it by doing it.

Talk is cheap.
Without action.

Yet everybody knows!
But you gotta do it.

Free your mind.

By living free.
From the inside out.

Which happens as you have a relationship with your true self.
The more often? The better you get to know. How honest you is?
The more liberation comes.

You see?

It's all you.

Where is God in this as in separated? Somewhere in the clouds looking down on you?

You project your experience from a source of energy that contains all possible expressions of infinity. That's where it all comes from. The light. Which you cannot be separated from. Inseparable. Which means you is light. That's divine. That's the supreme. And is forever. Call that God. Call that The Source. Call it being.

What you ask of it? It shall give.
It gives all without a question.

So what's preventing it then?
From not just showing up?

The mind.

That works in relation to a third dimensional perception of what seems to be linear time. So it has to conform to natural creation of this density. Meaning it has to happen as healthy as possible in relation to comprehension together with the ability to process.

Or else it blows the fuck up.

And you lose your mind.
= Too much, too fast

So all in good time.
Actually perfect.

Which is all in relation to your relationship in honesty and also your creation. Those go hand in hand with your positive statements which need positive energy to be affirmed subconsciously as to be presented as affirmed.

So you can affirm whatever.

Affirm whatever you desire.
And impress your subconscious mind with it feeling what you wish.

Like:

I am famous in the whole world and I am rich

Paired with tremendous fear you will become scared of becoming what you state you desire. So it needs to be congruent.

All of it.

It's like: You want it?

The feel it. Create it. Trust it.

Your welcome it's yours.

The fear of failure is non-existent.
Because not is ever a perfect creation.
Why? Because everything is all new and exclusive.
And nothing can ever be compared in relation to creation.

It is what it is.

If you wish to dull the experience you can choose to compare everything to a standard that you believe in as the perfect whatever. And by doing so put tremendous pressure on yourself in relation to self judgement and kill your own wonderful experience of appreciation.

That's all.

That's your choice.

Everything in life is from the inside out.

So you cannot judge and compare without affecting your own relationship with yourself. So why do that? If not in fear of being unique and authentic.

Ya feel me?

Some songs I've made I make with sincerity.
Some songs I just goof around. But then again try to bring something serious inside out that.

I am not aiming to become the next best anything.

Not in comparison at least.

I am always looking to become more of what I is..

Which is me dropping shame, guilt & fear in doing and creating more of which I feel is true and authentic to my expression.

And when I do that I feel like a true supporter of myself.

I really do what I wanna do.

I do not second guess anything as to think of other peoples opinion.

What I deliver, what I create.

Is fuckin' awesome.

It's a treasure all and all.
Everything about it.

It's like any song.

You can enjoy the vibe of it as is.

Or you can focus on a tambourine "being off" the entire track.

You life is a symphony.

It's a song.

Frequency vibration of different expression and absorption.

That's all.

What it becomes as in experienced is all from what you appreciate or not.

Which is all from you being you as much as possible.

Not confused.

True and honest.

Loyal and humble.

Living grateful.

To be the worthy yet deserving recipient of your own destiny.

Fair.

Fair deal.

Not Faramir. Not Boromir.

But Froco. From Shiner.

With Sam as your companion.

Sam backwards spell MAS.

Which means celebration.

See the signs.

It's all right there.

Viewable from a positive and adventurous mindset.

Which is the abstract and funky choice.

Being kool bordering crazy.

Like God.

I give you all.

As I am.

/ Leo