

Same Sex Attraction

There is absolutely nothing wrong with feeling the way that you do when being attracted to somebody of the same sex as yourself.

But we need a new word that is not associated with anything else to define this natural attraction that some human beings feel.

It's a one way street with some kool funk and also something that makes for a continuous loop of the same thing given the nature of not being able to get pregnant.

And I actually think it's cute and fun.
Like all you same sex people that are in love are!
And I don't feel that it's condescending.

So my idea for a new word and definition of somebody attracted to somebody else of the same sex is:

SWAYLOOPY

