

!GET HIGH!

I love getting high and I wish to get as high as possible.

But I do not enjoy escaping the world. I wish to experience as much as possible being present. All in love and all in peace. Feeling happy living in joy.

And also contributing and continue giving.

To a world of love.

Does this match you? Are you sweet and kind, with a sense of humour?

Then I wish to meet you.

As to get as high as possible together.

I know you can feel me.

And I ask as I write these words to please come join me.

The love of my life.

From the outside in.

That's the connection we all desire.
From the inside out.

I cry every day without you.
I wish for you every day.

I need love.
I need you.

But I also need to let you go.
And trust that you will appear when the time is right.
And that is all in relation to light.

Completely free, without any form of fight.
Just positive connection in sight.

Stress pushes us apart.

We are already together.

That's the promise.

We just have not met yet.

So how do we meet?

From desire.

We desire to be together and the universe conspires to make it happen.

We get what we ask for.

It's given.

No questions asked.

Ever.

Who are you?

A reflection of me.

Only in my experience more than I.

And I cherish that like nothing else.
And only desire to make you feel great.

In every way.

I love you.
And you love me.

We wish to be together.

Love makes it happen.
As we feel each other close yet not together.

I call for you. I state my wish.
I tell the universe you are my dream come true.

Yazoo - Only you

The resistance is strong.

The invited dark energies do not wish for success.

Yet it does.

But in misconception within man.

And so I ask once again..

What can I do right now?

..Besides feeling you coming near..

It will happen I am sure.
But when?

How much longer is necessary?

And this ladies and gentlemen.

Is karma.

The resistance to change.
For the better.

All in fear of losing..

What was never meant to be a part of our existence.

That we hold on to as to hold on to something.

Scared of living free.

Without resistance..

We all live a high life.

Naturally.

It's all a big confirmed idea keeping us stuck in relation to movement designed to make us experience more love. An idea that a majority hold sacred and holy.

This is asking for lock down.

Locked up?

Cannot happen.

But we can hold ourselves down if we so choose.

Free will.

Freedom of choice.

All we seek in super hard work is pleasure. But work so incredibly hard as to get further away from it. We push development away from what we long for. When all it ever is and forever will be.. is right here.

The pressure is always on.

But what about dropping the hold on what is increasing it?
I feel like that is the greatest trick that God ever pulled.

So how about focusing on that?

Instead of being afraid as to invite scarcity..

Let love be free.

As love is.

And all is given.

We are in opposition to what we desire.
And try to adjust to an offset instead of a natural balance.

Which cannot be created.

Simply allowed for.

Not lying.
Holding the idea sacred and holy.

Being true about love.

Money cannot create this.
Superficial experiences cannot create this.

Feeling love without judgement is the only way.

Which means without an idea.

Feeling does not require anything.

It's superior to itself.

And this is God.

Non-conceptual & unconditional conscious aware energy of positive expansion which we call love.

The real fear is fear of being disappointed.

Life not meeting the expectations.

So how high are those in relation to achievement?
And what is that achievement about?

What is success to you?

When all you need and also is..

Is love.

Tension is fear.
Relaxation is love.

So why work so hard on achieving anything else but love?

Which is all given. Without effort.

Given no hold resisting it.

Everything is attraction based on a general state of feeling that you choose to have over a certain period of time. This feeling will give you an experience as a projected/ reflected effect of holographic presentation all from the inside out of your unique experience.

What you keep telling yourself in conviction will become your experience as you feed your subconscious mind with what you desire or not. Freedom of choice. What it becomes is a surprise in terms of shape, form & color. But will match you as you are the one creating your own reality.

This happens all in relations between you as a personality and the true an authentic you being a soul being of infinite possibilities.

Where is God in all of this?

In all.

As energy cannot be separated from itself.

Intertwined and connected in all living things which is an illusion of movement and a play of light absorption. So whatever you desire you dream of it. You create as to support it. You affirm it in statements to yourself in positive energy and eventually it happens.

It's happening right now!

What you are experiencing is a result of you doing this. How much of a surprise it perceives to be is all about conscious aware creation or not. When stressing things you tell the universe and all giving energy that you are dissatisfied with where you are and thus attract more of these experiences as to learn how to make yourself happy. Regardless.

We are always happy for living.

But sometimes need a wake up call only possible by almost losing life.

And from there learn to be patient and feel grateful right where we are. In doing so we connect with the all giving source communicating emotionally that we are ready to move to a brighter experience of clear rendition in contrast to a dull experience of blurred eye vision. This would be the experience caused by judgemental thinking. So don't judge. Live free. And enjoy yourself right where you are and things become brighter, better and more pleasurable.

More than you can imagine which makes for a surprise even though you live more consciously aware. So no spoiler. But a faithful feeling that all you've dreamed of is coming to you. You just don't know exactly what that is.

Your subconscious mind is habitual and cannot differentiate between what is real and what is fictional. So your imagination makes for all to become. But also as it lacks the ability to calculate and evaluate it only accepts. And does this in relation to consumption. Which all of what you allow to be a part of your experience.

So if you consume negative self talk, discussions about things going to hell, movies of catastrophic consequence, music with low vibe complaining about things?

Then you are eating what you truly do not desire.

As you tell yourself that you are without power you create that.

When you affirm yourself to be a divine being of infinite possibilities you embrace your true power. Which is a given and simply wishes all well for you.

Good God.

All the way.

No terror, no punishment.

But has the ability to destroy.

As trees, bodies, leaves etc. Needs to decompose when done living.

So what do you wish for?

Decay? Stagnation? Or spectacular expansion!

Support that in all you do and also allow for the old to leave you which is to let the emotions of sorrow leave you as they will without judgement. Setting you free as making you ready to receive what you've dreamed of, not feeling sorry for it.

God, Universe, Source.

Is all blissful joy.

And gives based on connection.

Which is not about the opposite.

So invite light as to make it bright and everything will be alright!

THAT!

Is a fair and just deal.

Perfect.

What we all need is to trust love completely.
Which cannot happen without a close connection.
So all needs God.

Which religion has destroyed.

Making it into being religious instead of simply being true.

To self.

The energy of your true authentic nature without distance has the possibility to be off by either push or pull. All in regards to what you choose to conduct. Living in the past or in the future. When all there ever will be is right now.

Being relaxed in trust as to have faith in love = God Mode

Receiving life as is with acceptance.

But also creating yourself as to be a match to your true nature and signature as much as possible. All to contribute of most clarity in relation to what is necessary which is all about awareness.

I cannot change the world.
I cannot change you.

I can't change anything but my own misconception.
I can only be me. As clear and true as possible.

Just like you.

The change in the world is the change from the inside out of every human being living a lie in relation to their true nature. Realizing themselves to be God yet without separation and not in competition.

I consume nicotine as to calm myself.

I am very sensitive and become stressed easily.
I am not meant to live in a hectic world. Especially without smiles and loving connection. Like that I am not of this world. And neither are you.
But that's the challenge.

As to rise from nothing shining the light of the Universe holding a creation of pride held high like a sword of invisibility. A great honor. That I cannot cherish by insecurity.

And so I wait.
For the perfect time.
To soon come.